Girl Flier Details Hitler's Last Hour

By JAMES F. KING

OBERURSEL, Germany, Dec. 5 (AP) — Capt. Hanna Reitsch, German aviatrix who flew the last Nazi plane out of Berlin, has told U. S. counter intelligence investigators the missing Martin Bormann joined in a death pact with Hitler a few hours before the German capital fell.

The 33-year-old blonde pilot gave a graphic description of the final hours of Hitler and his companions in a Reischschancellery bunker, but said she left on the fuehrer's orders before their suicides.

The Army took her story off the secret list today with the comment it was "probably as accurate a description as will be obtained of those last days."

Bormann, aide to Hitler, chief of the Nazi SA (Storm Troops) andheado fthe Volkssturm, the people's militia called to action in the final weeks of the war, is being tried in Absentia by the International Military Trubunal at Nuernberg for war crimes.

The drama of the end bordered on comic opera as Russian shells burst overhead, according to Capt. Reitsch. She said Hitler berated Goering, Himmler and others as traitors while going through the motions of directing a phantom rescue army that had been wiped out days before.

She reported:

Goebbels, with his wife and six children, launched into burts of oratory with all the theatricals of a ham actor. Eva Braun became disgustingly dramatic. Blank-faced Bormann kept at his desk, writing a historical record of Nazism's finish.

As intensity of the Russian barrage increased, the shaking Fuehrer, on the verge of collapse, called for repeated suicide rehearsals. SS Guards, charged with seeing that the bodies were destroyed, stood by.

Capt. Reitsch, who claims the world's glider record and once flew in a V-1 bomb as test pilot, said she flew into Berlin April 26 with Lt. Gen. Ritter von Greim, who had received a frantic call from Hitler after Goering reportedly had attempted to take over as Fuehrer.

Her story, as told through an American interrogation officer:

"First to meet them was Mrs. Goebbels, who fell upon Reitsch with tears and kisses . . . Hitler came into Greim's sick room with his face showing deep gratitude over Greim's coming.

"Hitler asked, 'do you know why I've called you? Because Herman Goering has betrayed and deserted me and his fatherland. Behind my back he has established connection with the enemy. His action was a mark of cowardice and against my orders he has gone to safe himself at Berchtesgaden . . . prepared to rule in my place.'

"Hitler shouted, 'nothing has been spared me! No allegiances are kept, no "honor" lived up to. No disappointments that I have not had, no betrayals that I have not experienced, and now this above all else.'"

Greim and Capt. Reitsch were promised they could stay after they asked to remain in the bunker.

Afterwards Hitler came to her and in a low voice said, "Hanna, you belong to those who will die with me. Each of us has a vial of poison such as this," and handed her one for herself and one for Greim.

"I do not wish that even one of us falls to the Russians alive, nor do I wish our bodies to be found by them," said Hitler.

Hitler told her how he was counting on the army of Gen. Wenck, coming from the south, to drive the Russians back. Later she learned Wenck's forces had been wiped out days before.

She identified on the bunker, Goebbels, his wife and their six children, State Secretary Neaman Havel from Ribbentrop's office, Adm. Foss, as a representative of Doenitz, Gen. Krebs of the infantry, Bormann, Eva Braun, Hitler's pedsonal pilot Hansel Bauer, and Obergruppen Fuehrer Fegelein, husband of Eva Braun's sister.

Frau Goebbels was "a very brave woman." Goebbel's children, ranging from three to 12 years, sang for their "Uncle Fuehrer" and seemed to enjoy being in "The Cave."

Eva Braun spent most of her time "polishing her fingernails and changing her clothes," remarking over and over again: "Poor, poor Adolf, deserted by everyone, betrayed by all."

Hitler's manner and physical condition had "sunk to the lower depths. He would stdie about the shelter waving a road map that was fast disintegrating from the sweat of his hands, planning Wenck's campaign. He was like a young boy playing at war."

On the night of April 27, as the Russian bombardment reached its highest peak, "another suicide council was called by the fuehrer. The last instructions were given. The group was hypnotized. Then everyone made little speeches, swearing allegiance to the fuehrer and to Germany."

News of Himmler's armistice bid to the Allies on April 29 came as "the greatest blow of all. Hitler raged like a mad man. He sank into a stupor and for a time the entire bunker was silent."

With the report that the Russians would launch an attack to overrun the chancellory on the morning of April 30, Hitler, with a chalk white face went to Greim's room and slumped down on the edge of the bed.

"Our only hope is Wenck," he said, "and to make his entry possible we much call up every available aircraft to cover his approach."

Hitler then ordered Greim and Capt. Reitsch to make a get-away to deliver the order, as communications had failed. A small armored vehicle took them to a plane and they tok off on a broad street leading from Brandenburger.

Auto Air Hazard

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 5 (AP) —Police say they're seen everything now—motor car victims who dropped down out of the air. Sign painters William Goodnight and Charles E. Broad were minding their own business on a scaffold 12 feet above a parking lot when the bumper of an automobile caught one of their ropes. Paint and painters came tumbling down.

Neither was hurt seriously.

Winds' Code Not Used By Japs, Probers Told

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Congressional investigators were told today that the Japanese never broadcast a so-called "winds" message signalling a break with the U. S. prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941. William D. Mitchell, counsel for the Senate-House inquiry group, told members a check through Gen. Dougias MacArthur in Tokyo failed to disclose evidence the Japanese sent the pre-arranged signal to their consuls.

The "winds" message has been the subject of sharp controvery in several inquiries into the Pearl Harbor disaster.

On Nov. 19, 1941, the Japs sent to their diplomatic representatives a message setting up a code under which inclusion of certain words in the noon Tokyo radio broadcast would mean relations with Britain, the United States and Russia were "in danger" and there was likelihood ordinary communications would be broken off. The consuls were instructed to burn their papers if they heard the words.

In the case of the United States, these words were "east wind rain."

Mitchell told the committee so far as he had been able to learn, those words were never broadcast.

WAR placed heavy grief on Ida Lupino. A Hollywood writer says Ida is just learning the full truth. Her father succumbed to war injury; her first cousin, Nina, lost her right arm and right eye, and the wife of a second cousin, Barry, sustained a crushed chest and internal injuries.

Russians Again Bar Iran Troops

TEHRAN, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Russians have refused, in a second note to the Iran government, to permit entrance of additional Iranian troops into the troubled northwestern province of Azerbaijan, it was disclosed today.

60-Point Men Slated To Leave Japan Soon

KYOTO, Japan, Dec. 5 (AP)—The U. S. Sixth Army today ordered all 60-point enlisted men to report to the 11th Replacement Depot at Okazaki on Southern Honshu by Dec. 10. The move affects 6100 troops and brings to more than 28,000 the total released in the past eight days.

In the U. S. Eighth Army area the 28th Infantry Division and 14th Corps were alerted for return to the United States this month.

1550 CALORIES FOR GERMANS

STUTTGART, Germany (AP) —The United States intends to move enough food into Germany to assure an average daily ration of 1550 calories for everyone, Lt. Gen. Lucius C. Clay, American military governor for Germany, said.

Goering Threats Doomed Czechs

NUERNBERG, Dec. 5 (AP)—Hermann Goering shattered Czechoslovakia's last will to resist Hitler's war machine with the ultimatum that "half of Prague would lie in ruins from aerial bombardment within two hours," the international military tribunal was told today.

American prosecutors at the trial of Goering and 19 other Nazi leaders accused of war crimes laid before the court official German records and French and British diplomatic reports disclosing the Hitler pattern of threats, treachery and broken promises that crushed the Czechs only five months after the Munich pact led British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to proclaim "peace in our time."

Congress Eyes Labor's Break With Truman

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The CIO's open break with the Administration today aligned labor's "Big Three" into solid and formidable opposition against President Truman's program for fact-finding as a means to end industrial strife.

Congressional leaders hastening to determine how seriously this united front among the CIO, AFL and UMW would threaten enactment of the law Mr. Truman asked in a special message on Monday, still went ahead with their plans to draft such a bill.

CIO President Philip Murray made the break in a bitingly critical radio broadcast.

The AFL, through President William Green, and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers previously had criticized Mr. Truman's plan —which calls for 30-day strike truces while fact-finding boards are at work—on the contention it would shackle labor.

But Murray went further. He said the plan was designed "to weaken and ultimately destroy labor union organizations.

"The CIO," he declared, "is opposed to the basic policies thus pursued by the administration."

The CIO leadership has been cooling toward the Truman administration since V-J Day, when the President decided to liquidate the War Labor Board.

Kennedy Group Urges State Commerce Dept.

Creation of a State Dept. of Commerce to promote industry, safeguard jobs and create additional employment in Massachusetts, is recommended in a survey report filed with the Legislature today by the special commission authorized to study the State's economic status, headed by Joseph P. Kennedy. Summarizing the result of six months of public hearings, conferences and research, the commission presents a six-point program in which the foremost recommendations are for an initial budget of $1,000,000 and appointment of a commerce commissioner at an annual salary of $18,000 for 10 years.

Other recommendations would transfer the Dept. of Industrial Accidents to the Dept. of Labor and Industries; transfer the functions of the Massachusetts Development and Industrial Commission and State Planning Board to the new commerce department; create two advisory groups to the department, and establish a Washington office and regional branches in the state.

"The future of the people of Massachusetts lies in their ability to make quick adjustments and adapt themselves to the changing requirements of an age of keen and aggressive competition," the report states. "In doing this, we cannot entirely depend upon the initiative and enterprise of individuals, who frequently do not have the sources of information on which to make judgments."

The report asserts that the proposed million dollar budget for the department is completely justified by the magnitude of the problems to be faced, by the needs of organization and by the competitive expenditures by other states. Pointing out that the cost would represent an expenditure of less than two cents a week per family in the state, the report sets forth:

"In 1928, total industrial wages paid in Massachusetts was $798,703,300. In 1939, they dropped to $500,923,284, a fall-off of $297,780,016 in annual wage payments."

On the proposed $18,000 salary and 10-year term for the department commissioner, the report states:

"It is our feeling that the prestige which would be attached to the office will attract the interest of top-grade men. Our conclusion is that the salary and tenure of office would secure the services of the kind of men who would assure the successful administration of the department."

To support the contention that such a department is an imperative need of the Commonwealth, the commission report presents statistics indicating that Massachusetts has lost ground industrially.

It emphasizes that the decline in jobs between 1923 and 1933 was out of proportion to that in other industrial competitive states, and that the subsequent gain up to 1939, the last normal prewar year, was smaller in comparison.

"No solace can be found in the comparative rate of recovery achieved in the ensuing period ending in 1939," the report states. "In the first period Massachusetts went downhill faster than 20 other industrial states, and in the latter period only one state, Rhode Island, made a smaller percentage of recovery.

"Massachusetts has already shown a burst of energy which has resulted in the projected vast expansion of its assets—ports, airport facilities and highways. It would be ironic indeed, if the Commonwealth left unguarded the sources of its economic wellbeing, its industries and trade.

"Research in industry, agriculture and fisheries is on the threshold of a new era. Massachusetts must turn this prized asset to advantage in creating new products, new methods and new jobs. Possibilities of expanding commerce in this state are unlimited and should be pressed with the utmost vigor."

Kennedy's 6-Point Plan

Here are the six points urged in the Kennedy commission plan.

1 — Providing departmental status for the proposed Department of Commerce, despite the constitutional limitation of 20 state departments, by transferring the department of industrial accidents to the department of labor and industries, but not subject to its control.

2—Transferring the functions of the Massachusetts development and industrial commission and the state planning board into the department of commerce.

3—Establishing the office of Commerce Department commissioner at an annual salary of $18,000 for a term of 10 years.

4—Authorizing six divisions of the Commerce Department as follows: Planning, recreation, statistics and research, publicity and promotion, community and industry relations, service and information.

5 — Creating two advisory groups to the commissioner of commerce—a five-man board of regional advisors and an 11-man commission on inter-departmental cooperation and planning.

6—Establishing a Washington office and regional Massachusetts branches.

State Cops Join Hunt For Kidnaped Ronnie

All the Commonwealth's crime detection machinery was thrown into gear today in the search for 6-months-old Ronald Carlan of Arlington st., Chelsea, kidnaped a week ago as Commr. of Public Safety John F. Stokes and Chief of State Detectives Joseph J. Ferrari scheduled a conference with Chelsea police.

Stokes and Ferrari were to consult with Chief Charles M. Finn and Chief Inspector John J. Kirby of Chelsea, to devise means of intensifying the search. Also due to be present were two men of long experience in investigation of kidnapings, Lts. Michael J. Cullinane and Trodden of the State Police.

As the investigational manpower was being augmented, the total in rewards for information leading to the baby's recovery was boosted to nearly $5000 by the addition of heirloom jewelry handed over to police by Mrs. Edith Allison of Allerton rd., Milton.

The sympathetic Milton woman gave a heavy platinum and diamond pendant with jade and a matching bracelet, each valued at $500.

Mrs. Allison's philanthropic interest in shut-ins and afflicted children has caused her to be known as "The Fairy Godmother."

Last night Chelsea police inspected a Gypsy colony in Saugus in response to a tip that a new baby of about 6 months sad been seen there. The clue fizzled. So did another in Lynn and a third in the Fields Corner section of Dorchester. Nevertheless police continued to look into all tips given them, no matter how implausible they appeared.

The biggest disappointment to date came between 2 and 3 a. m. this morning when a score of uniformed police and plainclothesmen concealed themselves in Portland st. near the North Station, with the intention of arresting a woman who promised to keep a rendezvous there with a soldier and "give him a baby."

In parked cars, doorways, a restaurant and adjacent streets detectives and officers in plain clothes surrounded the area.

The woman was not seen in Portland st. and there was no hint that she drove past in a car or taxi.

Pvt. Alton A. Johnson, 32, of Cumberland st., Back Bay, was the soldier who led police to the scene of the promised meeting.

He said he was in the North Station yesterday morning when the woman approached him and asked him if he was married and whether he had any children.

When he replied that he was married, she asked him if he had any money and whether he would be anxious to have a baby.

The woman then asked him to meet her in Portland st. about 2 a. m. today and that she "would turn over a baby to me."

While he was still trying to frame an answer to the woman's strange offer, Johnson said, she turned abruptly and walked away.

$500 Reward

A $500 reward will be paid by the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser for exclusive information leading to the finding of 6-month-old Ronald Carlan. If you have any information concerning the whereabouts of this child, call the City Editor, LIBerty 4000.

DESCRIPTION: Blue eyes, straight black hair, tiny mole on lower jaw, almost beneath the right ear, 14 pounds, no teeth, jolly disposition.

CLOTHING: Light blue bunting suit, long white stockings, white flannel shirt, blue shoes, blue plaid shawl.

STATE POLICE have joined the kidnap hunt for Baby Ronnie Carlan. State Detective Michael Cullinane, Lt. John S. Kirby (standing) and Chief Charles Finn of the Chelsea police and State Detective Andrew Trodden are shown reviewing their meager information.

Archbishop, Foe of King Edward, Dies

LONDON, Dec. 5 (INS)—Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang, 81, former Archbishop of Canterbury and a powerful factor in the abdication of King Edward VIII, collapsed at a railroad station today and died.

As primate of all England for 13 years, Dr. Lang supervised 13,000 churches in his country and an annual income of more than 13,000,000 pounds ($52,000,000). He resigned March 31, 1942, because he found the duties of his office too wearing.

While spiritual leader of 30,000,000 Anglicans throughout the world, Dr. Lang was regarded as conservative and noted for his harmonious relations with the British Crown with but one exception—his famous controversy in 1936 with King Edward VIII, now Duke of Windsor.

Archbishop Lang, opposed to divorce, brought all the moral power of the church against the monarch's marriage to the American divorcee, Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson.

War Contract "Inside" Told At Curley Trial

By STEPHEN B. O'LEARY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Engineers Group, Inc., which the government charges Cong. James M. Curley and four others with using in violation of mail fraud statutes, arranged for his company to bid on two war contracts, Arthur E. Schumacher, Green Bay, Wis., manufacturer, agreed unde cross examination today in district court.

Counsel for Cong. Curley already had objected to Schumacher's testimony as far as Curley was concerned, on the ground the dealings occurred after the 71-year-old mayor-elect of Boston severed connections with Engineers Group, Inc., in December, 1941.

The witness agreed today under questioning that arrangements had been made for his concern, the Norcor Co., to bid on contracts for production of Navy mess tables, and with the Willys-Overland Co. for output of 5,000,000 brass detonators at the rate of 5000 monthly.

He said the company's bid on the Navy contract was rejected, and when asked if it was because their price was in excess of the normal, his answer was ordered stricken from the record and he then said he had no personal knowledge of the reason for the rejection.

He said he had no knowledge that James G. Fuller arranged for the bid on the Willys-Overland contract, but admitted his company had no previous dealings with Willys and that their first contact with them was after signing an agreement to obtain war contracts with Engineers Group, Inc., Jan. 12, 1942.

He said he had no personal knowledge that the bid was rejected by Willys because his concern lacked proper equipment. Counsel then questioned him about the company's later purchase of machines for producing detonators through arrangements made by Fuller.

At this point Judge James M. Proctor halted the line of questioning, despite insistence of defense counsel that it was intended to show that Fuller and Engineers Group had acted in good faith. He saved their exceptions.

Schumacher then testified that, through Fuller, his company had made application for financing through the General Credit Co. in Washington and for a capital loan through the RFC. He said the latter was rejected because his agreement with Engineers Group provided for commissions amounting to a brokerage commission.

He admitted it was necessary to cancel the agreement with Engineers Group in order to obtain the loan and that his company asked for cancellation. He said the group was to be paid a reasonable fee for their services from the company's $7500 deposit but as far as he knew no bill was sent.

He said his lack of knowledge was due to the fact that he played an inactive role in the company affairs from mid-February until late in March.

The Rambler

paign . . . Had the war continued my outfit would have been one of the first infantry units to storm the Japanese beaches . . . We were just lucky . . . But that's no excuse to leave me and men like me over here now . . . And I can't understand why the American people don't do something about it . . . If all that talk about the American home being kept together is to become true, this is no place for married men to be . . . A single fellow is hardly in the same situation here as a married man . . . Loving my wife as I do and thinking constantly of my little son, I can't spend the time here as easily as a single man . . . While the war continued, I wanted to fight alongside them to protect my home and theirs . . . But there are enough single men for the occupation and there are enough ships to take us all home, if the authorities want to do something about it . . . The high point men have been going home in a steady stream . . . With my 30 points, all I can look forward to is a lot of fancy promises . . . Signed: Disgusted Soldier."

N. E. Ex-Marine Admits Holdup

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Dec. 5 (AP)—A 20-year-old ex-Marine walked into police headquarters here last night and admitted holding up a Clearwater, Fla. tavern last week and abducting a waitress, Det. Lt. Morris revealed.

Morris identified the youth as Walter Dodge Schacht of the Nichols section of Trumbull. He was brooked for breach of the peace and held in $50,000.

Police said they did not know what prompted Schacht to surrender unless it was lack of funds.

Miles Reveals Tragic Delays As Japs Struck

By JOHN T. FLYNN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 — A tale of incompetence and negligence in Washington is being revealed here which is almost beyond belief unless we assume the actors had an objective they refuse to disclose.

For two days Gen. Sherman Miles has been telling the story of Army intelligence of which he was chief just before Pearl Harbor. That story, as he told it, speaks for itself. Here it is:

On Dec. 6, around midday, a long note began coming in from Tokyo to its Washington envoys. It came in 13 parts.

As part after part was extracted from the cipher, Gen. Miles could read what the Japanese envoys were to say to Cordell Hull at some future day—or hour. They would say Japan was breaking relations with the United States. This was the end. What was that hour to be?

But Gen. Miles, with this tremendous information locked in his mind, instructed his subordinate not to give it to Gen. Marshall until morning or to Secretary Hull or Mr. Stimson. He went out to dinner across the Potomac to the home of Adm. Wilkinson.

At 7 a. m. Miles had in his possession information which indicated an attack somewhere at 1 p. m. that day. He lived one mile from the War Department. But it took him two hours to get to his office.

When he got there he decided that only Gen. Marshall could issue orders to Gens. Short and MacArthur. He telephoned Marshall.

It took him from 9 to 11:15 a. m. to get Marshall to the office. Four hours and 20 minutes frittered away.

Short might have been warned in time to have averted the disaster, or most of it, but for this incredible tardiness.

Urges Schools Aid Industrial Research

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 5 — Increased use of research personnel and scientific institutions by New England industry was urged today by Albert E. Marshall, of the Rhode Island division of the New England Council, speaking at a credit conference here.

Marshall said schools and colleges of New England can be of great help in conducting research, and urged these groups be asked to co-operate with industry.

7 Bay State Cities Choose To Return Their Mayors

Two mayors were returned to office by narrow margins and five coasted to easy victories in elections yesterday in seven Massachusetts cities, complete returns disclosed today.

Merrill Aldrich won his third successive term in Taunton, defeating William M. Duffy, 6496 to 6391. Elected to the Taunton municipal council are Harold Johnston, Henry S. Williams, Francis J. O'Boy, Peter B. Gay, Robert Heap, Francis X. Casey, Anthony H. Bliss, Frederick H. Smith and Michael J. Welch. School committee members elected are Mrs. Miriam Baker, Miss Gertrude Owens, Mrs. Louise C. Walker, Joseph H. Powers, Stephen H. Rhodes, Joseph H. Martin, Thomas E. McCarthy, Kenneth I. Kelley and Wendell A. Mowry.

Surprisingly close was the contest in Newburyport, where Henry C. Learned, 70-year-old retired manufacturer making his first bid for public office, came within 63 votes of defeating the veteran incumbent, Mayor Kelleher.

The vote was Kelleher, 2654; Learned, 2591. Five councilors-at-large were elected, William F. Fenders, Edward G. Perkins, Michael J. O'Connor, James A. Croteau and Edward M. Follansbee. Elected to the school committee were Warren, Currier and Donald W. Page.

Mayor Joseph H. Downey was elected to a third term in the Brockton city election, defeating former mayor Horace C. Baker by more than two to one. Returns gave Downey 12,765 votes to 5152 for Baker.

In Salem, 13,266 voters went to the polls and Mayor Edward A. Coffey, unopposed, received nearly all the votes cast. The total represents 58 per cent of the registered vote.

The present school administration was repudiated when a slate of three candidates opposed to its policies were elected. They were Francis X. Collins, war veteran and Harvard honor graduate; Dr. James P. Ryan, and William A. Theriault.

Mayor Weston U. Friend won an easy re-election in Gloucester, being chosen for a fourth term over his nearest opponent, Chester H. Grant, former State American Legion commander. Friend's vote was 4034 to 2434 for Grant.

Mayor Edward J. Lamprон (D.) appeared an easy winner over his Republican opponent, Austin W. King, in incomplete returns from scattered wards in Northampton.

Latest returns from Holyoke indicated the re-election of Mayor Henry J. Toepfert to his eighth term in the biennial municipal election.

REDS TRAIL IN RIO POLLS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 5 (AP)—Army Gen. Eurico Gaspar Dutra took a commanding lead today in Brazilian election returns as the race for the presidency narrowed to the two major candidates. The Communist candidate, Yeddo Fiuza, lagged far behind.

Hospital Faces Baby Death Suit

NEW LONDON, Ct., Dec. 5 (INS)—Trial of six cases against the Lawrence-Memorial Hospital of New London, charging that infants were fed boric acid in normal saline, was to open at Norwich today before Judge Wynne.

The suits seek aggregate damages of $85,000. Five seek $15,000 each for deaths of newborn infants in April, 1944, allegedly as a result of the boric acid feeding, and the sixth seeks $10,000 for injuries inflicted upon a child who survived.

Disabled Transport En Route to Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Dec. 5 (INS)—The U. S. Liberty ship, Henry Ward Beecher, carrying 541 GIs back to the United States, was being towed to Bermuda for repairs today by the U. S. Navy tug, Restorer, which picked up the helpless vessel.

The ship, bound for Norfolk, Va., from Marseilles, lost her propellor some 300 miles northeast of Bermuda but was in no danger.

John W. Chapman Is Dead at 81

WALES, Me., Dec. 5 (AP)—John W. Chapman, 81, who came here 15 years ago from Bridgewater, Mass., was dead at his home today.

He was a former member of the Boston Bar Ass'n and the Massachusetts Parole Board, and had served as warden of the Rhode Island State Prison. His widow, a son and four daughters survive.

STABBED IN THE BACK BY ARTHRITIS

NOW is the time of the year when Arthritis is on the loose, stabbing victim after victim with its deadly dagger of pain. If you are one of those unfortunate people, here is important information for you to know. Many people suffering from nagging arthritis pains in back, knees, shoulders and hands, never suspect that these pains may be substantially caused, in some cases, by excessive acid wastes within the body.

As a dietary aid to assist the body's faster neutralization and elimination of these excessive acid wastes from tissues and joints, which in turn may tend to bring speedier pain relief to this extent, Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets were devised by a well-known food nutritionist. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets contain food sodium and food iodine, two minerals of nutritional value which may prove to be helpful to many arthritis sufferers. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets are free from all harmful Chemical drugs. They positively do not contain injurious ingredients of any kind.

CUT OUT THIS ADVERTISEMENT and present it with $1.95 at any Nature Food Centres Store to get your Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets. Take them as directed on the label and if they do not bring soothing relief to your aching joints and muscles faster than any other dietary aid you have ever used, THE TRIAL IS FREE! Just return the bottle and get your money back. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets cost only a few cents a day to use. 250 Tablet Bottles — $1.95. (500 Tablet Economy Size, $3.25.) Mail orders sent postpaid. They are sold only at

Some words fool you:

HAIL means...

HAIL means...

but BALLANTINE Ale

always means...

Purity, Body, Flavor!

A confusing word, "hail." It's the frozen stuff that falls during a thunderstorm. It's also the raised voice that you hope will attract a cabby's attention; but the taxi situation being what it is, attention is frequently all you do attract.

In pleasant contrast to these words that fool you, there's Ballantine. Ballantine always means PURITY, BODY, FLAVOR . . . the qualities symbolized by Peter Ballantine's famous 3-ring trade mark. Meet and enjoy them in a dinner-time bottle of Ballantine tonight.

Brockton Backs War Memorial

The proposed memorial to the unknown American dead of World War II had the endorsement today of Mayor Joseph H. Downey and the city council of Brockton.

They passed a resolution that "the mayor and city council of the city of Brockton go on record as being in favor of the proposed memorial to the Unknown Soldier of the Pacific and European theaters of World War II, as proposed by William Randolph Hearst."

The memorial was first suggested editorially by the Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser and other Hearst newspapers.

Commemorating the dead in both major war theaters, it would be similar to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier of World War I and would likewise be erected in Washington

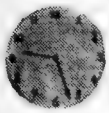
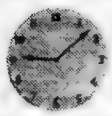
How do you rate with the Boss?

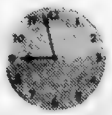
If he's like most bosses, he probably watches your "on time" record in the morning . . . and remembers it when promotion, raise, or bonus time comes along! How do you stand with your boss?



Does he feel you "don't care"—because you always seem to be punching in late . . . and then mumble something about traffic or parking? ☐



Does he put you down as just "getting by"—because you wait to drop the kids off at school and usually end up late a couple of times a week? ☐



Or does he rate you "tops"—because you come by bus and always get to work on time! ☐

Youth Quizzed In Farm Death

STURBRIDGE, Dec. 5 (AP)—The mysterious death of Harry C. Shepard, 73, reputedly well-to-do farmer, was under police investigation today to determine whether he had been gored by a bull or was the victim of foul play.

Shepard was found in his farm yard yesterday with his skull crushed with an untethered bull near-by.

One of three youths who allegedly assaulted and attempted to rob Shepard Nov. 27 was being held for questioning. The 16-year-old boy had been released from the Southbridge lockup yesterday after posting $5000 bail under which he and the other youths had been held. They are scheduled to appear in District Court Friday.

MEN, WOMEN OVER 40 RUN DOWN, LISTLESS?

GET NEW PEP, VIM
END THAT TIRED FEELING

Why be tired, nervous, old at 40 just because your body is not getting a sufficient daily amount of Iron, Iodine and Thiamine Many people have that "run down" feeling and never realize that an extra supply of these much needed elements may be just what they need. Check up on yourself now! Do you have all the energy and endurance you want or are you one of those who may need a little extra help by adding Iron, Iodine and Thiamine to your diet?

OLD AT 40-50-60?

Old age arrives when the body no longer builds new cells to replace old cells as fast as they wear out. Iron and Iodine, important cell building factors, help fight the onset of OLD AGE.

Nervous, Irritable?

Are ragged, jumpy nerves making you irritable, cross and out of sorts with yourself? High tension and nervousness may be due to a deficiency of Thiamine and Iodine. Don't overlook these factors when your "nerves" are on edge.

PALE, LISTLESS?

Radiant, robust, energetic health that makes life really worth while is priceless. If you are pale, listless, and all in, an added supply of Iron, Iodine and Thiamine may be just what you need.

WEAK, TIRED?

A mineral starved body, a body starved for Iron and Iodine weakens quickly and tires easily. You must get enough Iron and Iodine for strength with Vim, Pep and Vitality.

IRON-IODINE THIAMINE

Hiran — a fine combination of Iron and Iodine plus Thiamine that helps build resistance to ill health as it helps overcome organic nutritional deficiency of three important essentials. No matter what your need may be, you must get enough Iron or you cannot have normal strength, energy and endurance

HIRAN TABLETS—Large Economy Size—$3.50

TEST WITHOUT RISK: Use all the tablets, according to directions, in a bottle of Hiran, if you do not feel better generally, with more energy and vitality, this test is without cost . . . your money will be refunded.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—My brother-in-law is in a Postal Unit stationed in Japan. Is there any chance of his getting home soon. Also if a soldier is making out his war bonds in the name of his wife and she has decided to divorce him what can he do about the bonds? Exeter, N. HH.

A—Personnel attached to postal units are a little slower getting home than combat troops. It depends upon his points in order to estimate approximate return. Slow moving out of that area right now but should be speeded up shortly. On last question he should change beneficiary on future bonds. If wife is solely named on bonds already sent not much can be done. It is a civil matter. If wife only named beneficiary in event of his death, she will not be able to redeem them under present circumstances. He may then claim them.

Q—Can a divorce be obtained from a soldier while in the service without having his written consent. I refer to a soldier who has been in the Army 15 years. Recently he returned from overseas and re-enlisted, stating he was going to make the Army a career? M. S., Somerville.

A—Under the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Act enacted in 1940 a serviceman is protected in such matters for the duration and six months. At present it would be necessary to file a military affidavit if his wife were seeking divorce. If decree is granted without consent it would not become effective until six months following termination. After that period she may obtain divorce without filing above papers even though defendant is still in service.

(Note to Pittsfield soldier who sought the aid of this column in locating Lt. Richard G. Keane "somewhere in Greater Boston," and if found forward him pictures of his plane following a crash landing in Germany a year ago. Happy to say the heroic pilot read the notice in last Friday's edition of the Boston Evening American and immediately contacted this office. The pictures were forwarded to his home in Quincy. Lt. Keane had just returned from overseas service a few days earlier.)

Q—My son has been in the service since last April and would like to know if it is too late to seek a family allotment? He was the chief support before going into service and was making good wages at a local shipyard. My husband is now quite ill and unable to work; also there are five other children all under 18 years of age. M. P., Quincy.

A—You are eligible to file for a dependency allotment. To expedite action on application suggest you contact Personal Affairs Office, First Service Command, 808 Commonwealth ave., Boston, and they will assist in filing necessary papers. Approval of payments is decided by Office of Dependency and Benefits.

Q—Are M. P.'s deemed essential right now? My son is assigned to a separation center after 17 months overseas. He has a total of 49 points. He is anxious to return to school. When should he be discharged? C. H. O., Medford.

A—I would say he is considered essential on his present assignment and not having sufficient points at this time chances don't look bright for discharge until early next year.

Rambler's Ramblings

Visual education creeps into the city administration . . . The fire department has in its care now a precious projection machine and screen . . . It can be requisitioned for use by any city department that furnishes a reasonably good excuse for needing it . . . The machine will leave fire headquarters on such occasions, but it'll always come home to rest . . . And it'll be operated by Capt. George H. Friel, the department drillmaster . . . A quick switch from gold on blue to silver on blue: Police Inspector Frank O'Connell will probably be buying a ticket to Washington, D. C., just after Jan. 1 . . . His record is so good that he has been named eligible for a course of specialized instruction at the National Police Academy, J. Edgar Hoover's little red schoolhouse . . . While we're spotlighting the public's servants, let's flash a beam on suave, well-dressed Mayor's Clerk Jimmy Harrington . . . He was observed the other day eating a luscious sandwich in a Central sq. emporium . . . His etiquette was as faultless as usual . . . The thing that bothered our observer was the fact that Jimmy ignored the best part of the sandwich . . . The slice of dill pickle . . . Incidentally, Jimmy passed us a vote of thanks for publishing the honor roll of Cambridge men and women in the armed services . . . It seems that relatives and friends, who have been eagerly perusing the roll, have noticed an omission here and there and suddenly have bethought themselves that they neglected to comply with Jimmy's urgent appeals that they submit the names of their servicemen and women . . . . The way the phone calls and letters are rolling in, Jimmy feels the list will be complete and errorless by the time the war memorial adorns the Common . . . Take the elevator down one flight from Jimmy's office and saunter into the City Clerk's office . . . That's where starry-eyed lassies and foolishly fearless laddies file their marriage intentions . . . And when you get there, take a good look at dark-haired Doris Quinn and try to conclude why she hasn't been plagued by some young stalwart until she gave up and said "yes!" . . . If only we were young again!

ON WEDDING TRIP—Five days following his discharge from the Navy after three years of service, MM 2c Henry A. Morande, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Morande, 3 Blackstone st., Cambridge, took as his bride Lucie Porras, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ramiro Porras, 1 Blackstone st. The groom won 12 battle stars while serving 27 months on the carrier Yorktown in the Pacific.

2 Hurt in 5 Crashes, Hunt Hit, Run Driver

Five automobile accidents in Cambridge today, two of them hit-and-run, sent a six-year-old boy to municipal hospital and an adult to seek treatment from a local doctor.

O'Loughlin was placed on the danger list and will be X-rayed today.

Francis O'Laughlin, 6, of 79 Hampshire st., was being held in Cambridge City Hospital today for treatment of fractured skull, fractured pelvis and fractured right knee, received when he was hit by a "red truck" while on Hampshire st., near his home.

Although the car apparently passed over his body the driver did not stop.

O'Laughlin was found in the gutter by Francis Chochrak, 9, of 62 Webster ave.

Joseph Cosentino of Alpine st., was struck near Central sq., by a car driven by Mrs. Eliza R. Turner, of Francis ave., Somerville, she reported to police.

Mrs. Turner told police she was backing her car from a parking space when Cosentino walked behind the moving vehicle. He refused her offer to take him to City Hospital, she said.

Two men, Albert M. Conti, 36, of Oak st., Somerville, and Herbert E. Lee, of Marvin pl. Cambridge, were shaken up when their automobiles were in collision at Windsor and Harvard sts., they reported to police.

Taxi driver Frank A. Reiggiero of Main st., Medford, reported to police that his cab was struck by another car at Portland and Harvard sts, with slight damage.

He said he followed the other car to the Massachsetts Institute of Technology parking lot where he lost it, adding that the driver of the vehicle disappeared in one of the buildings there.

Maurice G. Dusseau, 73, of 1256 Massachusets ave., was struck in the leg by a car driven by Samuel B. Sheldon of Elmhil rd., Roxbury, according to police, who said Dusseau refused medical treatment. The accident occurred near the injured man's home.

North Cambridge AA To Meet Tonight

Members of North Cambridge A. A. will meet this evening at 8:30 at the headquarters, 2322 Massachusetts ave., at which time unfinished business for this year will be acted upon.

90 to Aid In Vote Recount

The mechanics for the recount of votes cast for Cambridge city councilors will be set up Saturday and the actual recount will begin at 8:30 Monday, election officials declared today.

The recount of ballots was called for by Francis L. Sennott, defeated candidate for council, after he completed his review of ballots last week.

At Monday's council meeting $5000 was appropriated to defray expenses of the undertaking.

Election officials said today that 90 persons will be engaged in the recount in comparison to the 130 used to count and tabulate ballots in the election. The recount will be completed within four days, officials said.

According to the election commissioner, Monday will be devoted entirely to the replacing surplus ballots cast for John J. Lynch in their original positions.

Lynch was the only councilor elected who had a surplus of first choice ballots.

After the replacing of surplus Lynch ballots the redistribution will begin.

Officials said the redistribution of surplus Lynch ballots may change the sequence of "the counting out" process where ballots for candidates with the least number of "first choices" are distributed to other candidates in numerical order.

Sennott was counted out in the election when he trailed Thomas McNamara, the ninth candidate chosen, by 42 votes.

The defeated candidate said he believed a change in the sequence of counting out will return him to the council.

Off the Blotter

Cambridge police today are searching for two youths, about 21, suspected of a handbag theft and an assault on a 63-year-old Cantabrigian. Victim of the robbery was Mrs. Grace Beckwith, 67 Dana st., whose handbag, containing $3, was taken from her by a youth in front of her home. The youth escaped in an automobile. A few minutes later two youths, one answering the description of the one who grabbed Mrs. Beckwith's handbag, slugged Michael F. Galvin, 63, of 12 Holly st.,

Gem Thieves Scale Rope, Smash Wall to Rob Store

Gem thieves with a knack for acrobatics and glass breaking made a 12-foot drop from a skylight with a rope, smashed a hole in a cement wall and ransacked the Gem Jewelry Store, 243 Elm st., Somerville, during the night. Inspector Edward G. Forristall stated the loot consisted of more than $1000 in watches, rings and other valuables.

According to traces left by the thieves, they removed a skylight from a dress shop next to the jewelry establishment and lowered themselves 12 feet to the floor. Then they made their way to a dressing booth, located against the wall separating the two shops, and hacked away at the cement partition, cutting a hole four feet high and 18 inches wide into the jewelry store.

Only the fact that the more expensive jewels had been placed in a safe for the night prevented loss of additional thousands of dollars' worth of valuables, Insp. Forristall said that the thieves apparently were afraid to tamper with the safe, because it was not marked in any way.

Albert Livingston, Blue Hill ave., Mattapan, manager of the jewelry store, told police he closed and locked the store last night at 9:30 p. m. In view of the heavy work involved in piercing the cement wall, which is several inches in thickness, thieves are believed to have spent several hours at the arduous task. They were screened from the street by curtains of the dressing booth in the dress shop and thereby escaped detection by the patrolman on the beat.

It is believed that the thieves made their escape through the back door of the dress shop and then fled in an automobile.

NOW THIS CREATION—We lack words to describe women's creations, but Barbara Murphy, 21, of Summer st., Somerville, sets this afternoon frock off to good advantage . . . She's daughter of former Mayor John J. Murphy and will be graduated from the Academy Modern, modeling school, Dec. 21.

Police received a report from Boston & Maine officials that boys were throwing bottles at windows of trains as they passed the School st.-Winter Hill bridge. Police could find no trace of the boys.

Patrolman Fred Rogers found the front door of the gas station at Prospect st. and Webster ave. open while making his early morning rounds. Sgt. Roche secured the door.

Arthur Nickerson, 134 Pearl st., proprietor of a bake shop, reported an attempt to break and enter his store during the night. Patrolman Edward G. Butman reported the glass broken over a window lock.

A false fire alarm was sounded from Box 713 at Conwell and Malvern aves., near the Cambridge line, which brought Engine 8 of the Cambridge fire department to the scene. Boys are believed to have sounded the alarm.

The lock was removed from the front door of the office of Dr. Newsome, 19 College ave., according to a report to police, in an attempt to break and enter. No entrance was gained. Insp. Joseph G. Crowley investigated the attempted break.

The neighborhood in vicinity of Magoun sq. was awakened by the alarm ringing from the Magoun Square Cafe, 499 Broadway. Patrolman Ludwig Nelson reported a partially open rear door set off the alarm. Officer Nelson shut off the alarm with the key left by the owner at the police station.

Plans for Vets

Spent a couple of hours with Com. Tom McGrath, of veterans' aid and pensions t'other day . . . He has a lot of good ideas and will propose several important changes in the system of aid to vets and their families . . . One important move—which Tom plans to bring before the board at the next meeting—would place a doctor and nurse on duty at the vets' office in the K. of C. building . . . This would eliminate the necessity of sending a patient to one of the several doctors scattered throughout the city . . . Under McGrath's proposal a veteran or a member of his family in need of medical attention, could visit the office and undergo an examination immediately . . . Dressing rooms and X-ray facilities for both men and women have been installed . . . On the other hand should an emergency call come to the office, the doctor could respond immediately . . . Hospital arrangements could be made immediately under the new proposal and end delay in notifying the government . . . If the federal aid office fails to receive official notification within 24 hours that a patient has been hospitalized, it may refuse payment of the bill and the city is liable in full for the amount involved . . . Incidentally, the veterans' aid and pension office has mailed over 4000 copies of discharge papers . . . A small, vest-pocket size edition of the discharge is made for the convenience of the returning vet.

OPEN THE DOORS

WITHOUT REGARD to the merit of the arguments in this first controversy in which the new Boston Port Authority finds itself involved, we believe its hearings should be public.

For years we have argued against closed-door sessions of the Governor's Council and similar bodies.

Open covenants openly arrived at inspire public confidence.

OUTLAWING DISEASE

AS A MEANS of protecting the lives and health of American citizens, the United States Senate Committee on Education and Labor has approved a resolution calling for the immediate establishment of a worldwide health department.

The purposes in mind are to utilize modern medical and hygienic science to control and, if possible, to eradicate endemic diseases everywhere in the inhabited and commercial areas of the world, to prevent the spread of epidemics which at various times in history have afflicted whole continents with pestilential fury, to assist backward countries, many of which are now focal disease centers, in overcoming the evil, and to improve health conditions generally throughout the globe.

The pending Senate action is an outgrowth of the United Nations Conference at San Francisco last May.

THE SENATE RESOLUTION, which must be adopted jointly by both houses of Congress, asks President Truman, on behalf of the United States Government, to urge upon the United Nations Organization the "speedy convening" of the suggested conference and "the early formation of an international health organization as one of the objectives of the United Nations Organization."

Malaria, typhus, dysenteries, diphtheria, meningitis, scarlet fever and bubonic plague are among the deadly maladies which exist not only in many remote pest holes of the earth, but also in some of the oldest settled portions, and which have recently been present in epidemical intensity in various regions.

THE SENATE Committee on Education and Labor presents an unanswerable plea for quick action as a defensive measure for America.

Its report says:

"There is today no international health agency organized or equipped to cope with many of the health problems of the rapidly changing world.

"This committee believes that the creation of such an agency is an urgent necessity FOR THE WELL-BEING OF EVERY AMERICAN CITIZEN as well as for world health.

"The end of the war has brought with it extremely grave dangers to world health.

"Every reliable report indicates that disease has increased its toll during the war, that in some areas disease incidence has reached frightful proportions, and that CONDITIONS ARE PRESENT FOR EVEN GREATER EPIDEMICS DURING THE YEARS TO COME.

"The experience of the last war should put us on our guard; for it is a fact that far worse epidemics followed World War I than occurred during it.

"In 1919 the world-wide influenza epidemic took 20,000,000 lives in six months, INCLUDING MANY THOUSANDS IN THE UNITED STATES, and in the early 1920's typhus fever in Eastern Europe claimed MANY MILLIONS of victims.

"Disease does not respect national boundaries.

"Particularly in our shrinking world, the spread of disease via airplane or other swift transport across national boundaries GIVES RISE TO EVER PRESENT DANGER.

"Thus it is TO PROTECT OURSELVES that we must help to wipe out disease everywhere."

PSYCHOLOGICAL dramas appear very popular with producers of both stage and screen. "The Seventh Veil," a film of this type, is a sensational success in England. The title is inspired by the claim that the human mind is veiled to the outside world. With friends the average persons drops two or three veils. With a lover five or six. But only a psyehitrist can tear down the seventh veil.

SETTLING DOWN: Have you moved from the town of your birth? What made you decide to live where you are now located? George Bernard Shaw was taking a trip through the English countryside some years ago when he stopped to wander around the town of Ayot St. Lawrence, Herts, Eng. In the course of his wanderings he came upon the village graveyard. He noted by the tombstones that the average age of the natives at death was 93. "What a healthful place this must be," observed Mr. Shaw. "I believe I will settle down here." And so he did.

SIDELIGHTS: As you may have noted, California has received another discouraging setback in its efforts to top Brooklyn. I am referring, of course, to the achievement of Brooklynite Mrs. Zak Gabel, who gave birth to two sets of twins in less than a year . . . Headline from New York city newspaper: "First Whispers of Snow Flutter Lightly on City." Very poetic. Can it be the Manhattan newspapers are going to give the snow the same headline treatment accorded the rain by Los Angeles newspapers as indicated in the immortal headline: "Gentle Rain Falls on Sunny Southland"?

BACHELORS: Successful middle-aged bachelors who have comfortable and well-managed homes are usually a source of irritation to married women and bachelorettes. That a man can get along so well without a wife's aid is believed, by the ladies, to encourage eligible young men to remain bachelors. Wives also believe a happy bachelor makes a husband wonder if he wouldn't have been better off as a single man. Among the celebrated successful bachelors who have well organized homes are Robert L. Ripley, Herman Rodeheaver and Cesar Romero. Ripley and Rodeheaver have both city and country homes. Romero has a very comfortable house in Beverly Hills . . . Greer Garson, Jeanette MacDonald and Andrea Leeds Howard of the "Matchmaking Committee of the Bel-Air and Beverly Hills Married Woman's Association" have for some time been unsuccessfully trying to persuade Mr. Romero to marry and settle down. He is thought to have a bad influence on the Beverly Hills and Bel-Air husbands.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—Among the properties and sources of income of Franklin Delano Roosevelt and members of the Delano family there were and, as to some individuals, there still are a coal mine and company town called Vintondale, in Cambria County, Pennsylvania.

Westbrook Pegler

Frederic Delano of Washington, an uncle of the late President, and numerous other Delanos, still have financial interests in the properties. Frederic Delano was chairman of the National Resources Planning board, with offices in the State Department from 1934 to 1943, when he retired.

This board is a radical New Deal agency. It's purposes, according to analysis by some opponents who may be prejudiced, include compulsory insurance.

Uncle Frederic was born in China, the son of Warren Delano and a brother of the late Sara Delano Roosevelt, the mother of Franklin D.

He is one of a dozen relatives in whom President Roosevelt recognized abilities of value to the public and appointed to salaried positions.

THUS FAR my inquiries have not revealed the extent of the late President's income from the Vintondale coal properties. That he was interested was established by a letter on White House stationery, dated June 29, 1942, and signed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

"Mr. Delano is my husband's uncle," the letter said, "but my husband sold all interest in these holdings and, therefore, he could do nothing."

This letter was a reply to one from a man claiming to hold $40,000 in mortgage bonds on the property who believed he was being treated unfairly and that the conduct of the company toward its obligations violated some of Roosevelt's professed principles.

The claimant's bonds were depreciated to negligible value while a sales company called the Delano Coal Co., with offices in New York, was said to be receiving a big income for acting as agent to sell the coal.

Sharp complaint was made concerning the financial practices employed, but a letter which the claimant says he received from Frederic Delano, from the address "220 State Dep't Building, Washington," defended the commissions paid to the sales company.

It said that, obviously, "there can be no income from the property except by sales, and I see no obligation on the part of anyone to conduct such sales service without compensation."

ON MARCH 19, 1940, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph published a story from Vintondale accompanied by a photograph showing "miners who woke up this morning to find Vinton Collieries Corp. had shut down the mines and departed without paying $30,000 in wages. They can do nothing except sit and hope the company will come back. Behind them is the company store. In it is locked 700 pounds of meat, the main supply of the town. They are determined the company will not remove this food."

The text of the story, signed by Arthur Moore, said: "Imminent shutdown of their power supply today threatened 500 miners' families with blackout nights, schoolless days and irreparable damage to the Vinton Collieries Corp. mine. Abrupt closing of the mine left most of the town's 1750 inhabitants without money for food, cut off their supplies at the company store and gave them no hint when the miners will get $30,000 due them in wages."

Further, Moore's story said, Walter G. Morris, a local public official, charged that: "The company moved 86 cars of coal secretly out of the Blacklick Valley. They were in a hurry. And to see that nothing stopped the cars they brought three auto loads of police."

ON APRIL 19 the Johnstown Democrat published six photographs under the caption "Apples on Easter Sunday—Meat Goes to Waste." The text below said: "Vintondale miners, out of work since March 1, ate raisins, apples and corn meal Easter Sunday, thanks to the Federal Surplus Commodities Corp., while large quantities of food, including beef, ham and bacon, reposed in the company store, owned and operated by the Vinton Colliery Co. Notwithstanding the fact that Vintondale miners offered to purchase the meat and pay out of wages already earned, company officials allowed the meat to rot. Wednesday employes of a rendering company were called to haul away the food, unfit for consumption. Wives and children of coal miners stood by."

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5—At the turn of the century in New York there was an amazing character called Ward McAllister, who created the phrase "New York's 400." He was the social arbiter, dictator and boss of New York society.

The life of this man, who has never had an equal as a social leader in America, has been put down in a book called "Jealousy House," by Clarence Buddington Kelland. Jerry Wald will produce it, and with that keen eye of his saw at once just what he could do with a story of this type—the costumes of that plush era—those wonderful days of self-made millionaires and social snobs, will all be put into the movie. Errol Flynn and Eleanor Parker will have the romantic leads, but a Ward McAllister will be sought by Warners.

JOAN BENNETT doesn't mind playing heavies. In fact, I suspect you won't see her for a long time as a sweet young thing. "Woman in the Window" started it, and her latest picture, "Scarlet Street," convinced her that her metier is not the bread and butter miss, but women who are not snow white. She's about to do another thriller, "Mystery in Mauve," by Frank Bigelow, with Edward G. Robinson, who was her co-star in the other two melodramas. Her pictures at Universal are all being made for Diana Productions, the new Walter Wanger-Fritz Lang-Joan Bennett organization, which is named after the lovely debutante in the Wanger family, Miss Diana Wanger.

OH DEAR, OH DEAR! I had hoped by some miracle Bette Davis wouldn't play the wife in "Life With Father." She is so much better in pictures in which she has not seen other actresses play the same role. She really gave a carbon copy of Tallulah Bankhead in "The Little Foxes" and I didn't like her in Ethel Barrymore's role in "The Corn Is Green." But Mike Curtiz and Robert Buckner have taken back Bette's test to show Howard Lindsay, who is in the hospital, and to let his partner, Russell Crouse, see it. If they approve it's in the bag. Fredric March is all set for "Father." I don't know why Warners feel they have to have a star name for the mother—the popularity of the play should carry it.

MRS. CHAUNCEY OLCOTT, who steadfastly refused to sell the rights to her famous husband's life story unless she could approve the actor who was to play her silver-voiced tenor husband, has sold the rights to Warner Brothers. She has accepted Dennis Morgan and so you will hear and see him in Chauncey's life story, which is a very sweet one. Chauncey, a very devout Catholic, never worked during Holy Week. His company was always dismissed. I first met him in Montana, where I went many years ago on a visit when my daughter was a baby. His sweetness with her and with all the other children is one of my most pleasant memories.

ATTENTION, FRANK CAPRA! I hear through my pet sponsor that you are in New York and that you hurried there to buy the rights of "State of the Union," the new Broadway hit play. That is, you want to TRY to buy it. No, I didn't check with your office, because I have been writing a column too long to accept the sort of run-around you give reporters.

WHEN I HEARD that Darryl Zanuck had a copy of Guy Endore's hot Tabasco novel, "Methinks, the Lady," on his desk, methought it was the craziest title ever heard. But when you hear that it springs from Shakespeare's "The Lady Doth Protest Too Much, Methinks" it doesn't sound silly. Believe me, this is hot stuff for a movie, but Otto Preminger is convinced that it is not too hot to handle. The Book (and try to pick one up at your favorite book store) is about a woman with a split personality who is married to a psychiatrist only he doesn't suspect her alter ego. When she's good she's very, good, and when she's bad she's censorable!

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Bill Edwards, the good looker in "Miss Susie Slagle," is no longer heart whole and fancy free. Right after the first of the year he marries Hazel Allen, a doctor's assistant; Mervyn Le Roy and his bride-to-be, Mrs. Kitty Spiegel, completely surrounded by well wishers after I announced their engagement. Claudette Colbert, Mervyn's star, was one of the first to wish them happiness. A little later we all went to the Beverly Hills Club for dinner. Doris Warner Vidor, once married to Mervyn, was dining with her bridegroom, Director Charles Vidor, and the Milton Sperlings. They drank a toast to Mervyn and Kitty. Anita Colby was with the party, and her friends are determined that the recent uncalled-for blast in another column shall not remain unanswered; at the Jules Stein party, Van Johnson told me he has been playing tennis. That accounts for his loss of weight. Had nice talk with Thornton Delahanty, who told me the Charles Bracket-Billy Wilder movie, "Lost Weekend" will win his annual magazine award.

THE HARRY LACHMANS' source for Alwater Kent was the same night, with many of Alwater's friends present to congratulate him on his birthday. Jeanette MacDonald, Mary Pickford and Bebe Daniels helped cut the cake; Ottilie Kruger, daughter of Otto, has a serious New York heartthrob in Tony Carr of the "Dear Ruth" stage hit; wonder if Charley Foy knows that his ex, Grace Hayes, is back in town; Buff Cobb switched to handsome Charlie Rossell at least for one date. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Alien Property Custodian James E. Markham told me the other day that a wonderful opportunity is open for some enterprising American manufacturer.

If he shows the proper initiative, he can obtain the patent rights to process the very latest thing in dried venom of Chinese toads.

But for the war, this would have remained a Japanese monopoly. But we got mad at the Japs over something or other and seized the rights to the patent.

Mr. Markham confided that altogether we have snatched more than 33,000 patents belonging to our various enemies. Many were employed during the conflict in war production and helped us materially in beating the original patent owners.

Virtually all these seized patents are now available. Many of them are highly practical for American manufacture. There are a few, however, which may go begging unless manufacturers with sufficient breadth of vision realize their opportunity.

For instance, the dried toad venom is supposed to be an effective heart stimulant, although I do not think it would do my ticker any good if I knew I was swallowing dehydrated toads.

Another patent, available to anyone wishing to set up a specialized business, gives the formula for making serpent wine. Advantages claimed are that this fermentation of fine old snakes provides a beverage as mellow and sweet as aged whisky.

It might well be that the Japanese got the idea originally from the Good Book (Proverbs 23: 31-32):

"Look thou not upon the wine when it is red . . . it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder."

This snake wine may have something at that . . . a captured Jap photograph shows a Jap pilot taking a hearty swig before taking off on a fighting mission.

As a wine connoisseur, I wish I knew which were the best vintage years for snakes.

TWO OTHER seized Japanese patents provide the formula for manufacturing a thing called "Moxa." It is a cottony substance prepared from certain plants and is recommended for cauterizing wounds and infections. The Jap patent owners claimed that the vapors of Moxa, together with powdered garlic, if applied to the wound, will heal it without leaving a scar.

Another Oriental way to save face?

CUSTODIAN MARKHAM has several patents for processed foods which I am afraid would come under the heading of acquired taste. Of course, we used to say the same thing about olives and avocado pears, so maybe I am just pessimistic.

One of these foods is made by fermenting yeast made from rice bran with mold, and then drying and pulverizing the product.

Another, said to be very nutritious, is made by treating live eels with warm water to extract a pasty liquid from the overheated eels and then evaporating it to powder form.

A French patent gives the formula for making fish-water, said to be very popular among epicures in Indo-China. This is a speed-up process. By means of it, fish are autodigested in warm salt water for five days instead of three to five months as formerly. The liquid is used as a beverage—and I will thank that distinguished connoisseur of fine potables, barnee, to refrain from saying "Ugh!"

STILL ANOTHER Jap patent tells how to manufacture a cosmetic. This consists of an India rubber emulsion to be applied to the kisser as a powder base.

Two other Jap patents, which Custodian Markham thinks are rhetorical, are both for emergency stopping devices on automobiles. These inventions describe a recoil mechanism attached to and extending about three feet in front of the bumper when the car is moving rapidly and less distance from the bumper when the speed is slower.

The mechanism automatically operates brake and clutch simultaneously when it receives a shock—and stops the car.

Experts, however, contend that even at 30 miles an hour the interval of time required for the apparatus to function would be too long for it to be any good.

THIS SEEMED funny as the devil late the other night, but in the cold light of another day I am skeptical.

The talk somehow got around to ancestors, and Mr. Carroll Knowles volunteered the information that he is a descendant of that dauntless signer of the Declaration of Independence, who wanted no mistake about his identity—Charles Carroll of Carrollton.

There was more talk about Charles Carroll. Finally, Nat Brandwynne, the bandleader, cut in, brightly:

"I'm descended from a declaration of independence signer too!"

"You!" we all chorused. "Who?"

"Button Gwinnett," said Mr. Brandwynne firmly. "Through a nephew on his mother's side—Nat Q. Zipper!"

Wonder why that seemed so hilarious at night . . . ?

"What are you supposed to be—the army of occupation?"

The Brighter Side

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

By Damon Runyon

During George Holland's vacation, the Boston Evening American presents a daily article by Damon Runyon, famous short-story writer and novelist.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—I suppose my yardstick is somewhat similar to that of Mr. Al Weill, a rotund fight manager whose daily menu was always evidenced by the grease spots on his waistcoat and who thus became famous in puglistic circles as "The Vest."

I once told Mr. Weill about a fistic encounter I had witnessed.

"Al," I said, "you never saw such a battle! It was ferocious from gong to gong! First one guy was down, then the other! Biff! Bang! Bop! You could scarcely distinguish their features for blood! One guy's eye was hanging out on his cheek! The other guy's nose was spread all over his kisser! There was blood everywhere! Oh, what a fight! The referee kept slipping in the gore on the canvas! What a Pier 6 thing it was, Al!"

"Is that so?" said Mr. Weill, chewing a big cigar meditatively. "How much was in the house?"

MY MEASURE of success is money.

I have an interest in artistic success that also makes money, of course, but if I had to make a choice between the two I would take the dough.

I have learned that when you carry your money to the bank the teller does not hesitate before accepting it to inquire:

"'Brother, was the enterprise from which this money came of artistic merit or just a commercial winner?"

IT MAKES me laugh when I hear someone say of a motion picture: "It isn't a good picture, but it will get the money."

If it gets the money it is a good picture in my book, even though I may not like it myself. Oh, sure, I know this is a sordid attitude. I will abandon it as soon as the world arranges a system of compensation in luxury for an artistic failure equal to that which derives from a commercial success.

What is merit, anyway? Is it not something that the most people approve? Or is it something that just a few persons fancy? I would say the former.

I know of newspapers that many so-called expert newspapermen consider far below perfection in every detail yet that have greater circulation than newspapers deemed by these experts first class in every department of the newspaper-making technique. Who are the better judges, the public or the experts?

I say the public.

MAYBE what the experts say is perfection is not perfection at all, except in expert theory. Maybe it is the approval of the public that is actually the mark of real perfection. Anyway, that is what counts with me, mercenary-minded old skeezicks that I am.

What good is an artistic failure? What does it prove? That the people are numbskulls? I believe that is what the perpetrators of artistic failures like to think, but if you ask me they are the numbskulls themselves. An artistic failure is usually an effort to make the public take to something that the perpetrator personally fancies, which brings to my mind a bit of advice offered a youthful play producer by an old-timer.

"Never produce a play just because you like it yourself," said the veteran.

AN OLD RULE with me is never decry a success.

I think I am one of the few who stick to this rule faithfully. It is much more fashionable to use the velvet knock on success—animal, vegetable or mineral, which is to say, boosts with reservations. The good old "yes, but" method.

I prefer cheering a winner 100 per cent. I do not believe in wasting time sitting around marveling how some dope got ahead or criticising his technique with the table utensils because that is not going to mar or reduce his success in any manner. I believe in giving him big applause and being pleasant to him. What have I got to lose?

I SUPPOSE young people should not read Runyon, in these moods lest I undermine ideals and illusions, though if they heed me I will also save them a few jolts. But I do not mean that all is hard practicality with me, young people. I recognize that we have many instances of artistic ventures for the sake of art—enterprises based on sincere desire to educate and entertain the public and with no hope of pecuniary return, and I must applaud this helpful spirit.

I would share in it myself if I could first make a bundle out of some strictly commercial sortie or had a package left to me.

Schools Get History Papers

Examination questions were distributed to 43 public and parochial high schools of Boston today in preparation for the selection of school representatives in the Hearst newspapers American History Awards with more than 10,000 local pupils participating.

The sealed papers containing the 20 questions pertinent to American history will not be opened, however, until Friday, the day when the examinations will be held simultaneously in all competing schools.

From the papers submitted in each high school, history teachers will select the best three and forward them to Supt. Arthur L. Gould, and to the Rev. William J. Daly, supervisor of parochial schools in the archdiocese.

They in turn will submit the papers to a board of examiners who will rate them and select the top-ranking examinations. The writers of these will be eligible to compete in the city final contest in Faneuil Hall, Dec. 17, and the first three winners will be eligible for the national contest.

No relative of any employe of the Boston Record-American or Sunday Advertiser is eligible to compete for these awards.

Dorothy Kilgallen writes "Broadway" every day for the Boston American.

40 Feared Dead In 6 Air Crashes

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 5 (AP) —Authorities searching the storm battered Pacific Northwest and Alaska for 20 fliers, a civilian mail pilot and 19 servicemen, missing in six airplane crashes, doubted that many would be found alive.

Rescue crews yesterday reached Navy Ventura plane that crashed a week ago near Mt. St. Helens. Four Navy airmen are missing. One Army passenger is the only known survivor.

Bodies of four Army airmen were also removed from a B-24 that disappeared Nov. 1.

$20,000 Bail for 2 On Lynn Girl Charge

Two youthful New York book salesmen, Robert Diehl, 18, and Maurice Jeanneau, 21, pleaded not guilty in Lynn court today to criminally attacking Mrs. Bertha Sipe, 20, after striving to make a book sale at her home in Murphy ave., Lynn.

Defense Atty. William J. Kelly asked time to study the case and Judge Ralph Reeve set Dec. 13 for trial, bail at $10,000 each.

2 Labor Union Curb Petitions Filed

Atty.-Gen. Clarence A. Barnes today filed with the Secretary of State more than 20,000 signatures necessary on his petitions for initiative and referendum requiring accountability on the part of labor unions and prohibition of political contributions by them.

The Legislature in its last session defeated similar bills. Filing of the petitions today will put the question on the 1946 ballot.

Hub Over Top In Bond Sales

Greater Boston has gone over the top in individual purchases of Victory Bonds and the entire Bay State is not far behind, with less than three per cent separating it from a 100 per cent score, it was announced today.

Bonds worth $89,920,000 have been sold to individuals in the Greater Boston area, or 101.8 per cent of the quota. In the whole state, $127,100,000 worth or 97.8 per cent of the quota has been sold.

First reports of corporation buying in the one-week drive of business firms toward a $462,000,000 objective, showed a total of $52,300,000 or 11.3 per cent.

Sales of E bonds neared the halfway mark, with $29,000,000 or 44.6 per cent sold.

Tomorrow, 19 students from Brighton, Waltham, Norwood, Brockton, Quincy and Bridgewater will be taken on a 45-minute flight over their home communities as a prize selling Victory Bonds.

'No' to Gunmen

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (AP)—Two gunmen walked up to the ticket window at the Berthi Theater. One pointed a pistol at Cashier Helen Tindle, 38.

"Give me the money," the bandit said.

"No," said Miss Tindle.

The robbers looked at each other and walked rapidly away.

"I think it was a toy pistol," Miss Tindle told police. "I hope it was!"

Courtesy is the "CENTRAL" idea

One by one, wartime travel shortages and shortcomings are on the way out. But the 136,000 men and women of New York Central will never forget the cheerfulness and helpfulness passengers showed in those trying days. You shared rooms. You postponed trips. And when war traffic held up your trains, you met delays with a smile.

Do you wonder that such courtesy proved catching? Do you wonder that New York Central railroaders redoubled their efforts to be personally helpful? And they're still at it! For all the way from Boston to St. Louis, and from New York to Chicago, they've formed themselves into hundreds of Public Relations Groups.

Round Tables Get Results

Sitting in on these round table discussions are executives, engineers, station agents, switchmen, shop mechanics, men and women of all the 128 railroad crafts. Each is both teacher and pupil. For out of their exchange of experience and ideas are growing better ways to earn your goodwill.

Graduates in Good Manners

Nearly 30,000 have already enrolled, and more are joining daily. For they know their friendly helpfulness can mean quite as much to your travel enjoyment as the modern comfort of today's Great Steel Fleet...or the still greater luxury now being built into New York Central's Trains of Tomorrow.

"Company Manners"

Most Becoming

thing to wear is a smile, says the new employee booklet, "Company Manners." You'll see that proved everywhere you go on New York Central.

Little Words

like "please" and "thank you" do a big job. You'll hear them used often and sincerely along the Water Level Route.

Ability

plus dependability is the important thing you'll find on New York Central, from signal tower to baggage room.

MOSCOW, Dec. 5 (AP)—The entire Soviet Union today observed a holiday in celebration of the ninth anniversary of the adoption of the Stalinist comstitution.

Bing Dedicates Program To Sister Kenny Donors

Bing Crosby will sing his own and the country's favorite Christmas songs in a nationwide broadcast tonight as a tribute to all who are helping him in his effort to raise $5,000,000 for the Sister Kenny Foundation for the care of victims of infantile paralysis.

Among his selections will be "Silent Night" and "White Christmas." The broadcast will be over the Mutual network, with WNAC as the Boston outlet.

In Massachusetts, where the quota for the Kenny Fund is set at $200,000, Bert McKenzie, New England field director for the drive, reports constantly increasing contributions.

"No greater Christmas present can be given a child than good health," McKenzie said, "and it appears that the people of Massachusetts will more than do their part toward helping the thousands of victims of infantile paralysis in regaining their health through the methods employed by Sister Kenny."

One half the contributions received in every state will go toward the establishment of Sister Kenny clinics locally. Contributions should be sent to Bert McKenzie, 46 Church st., Boston. Checks and money orders should be made payable to the Sister Kenny Foundation.

"NESCAFÉ" IS HERE AGAIN!"

...yelled the Coach

ROASTER-FRESH COFFEE MADE RIGHT IN THE CUP

Roaster-fresh because in Nescafé all the fresh flavor of newly-roasted coffee is sealed in by added carbohydrates.

NESCAFÉ

A COFFEE EXTRACT COMBINED & POWDERED WITH ADDED DEXTRINS, MALTOSE & DEXTROSE

NESTLÉ

PREPARED BY NESTLÉ'S MILK PRODUCTS INC. NEW YORK

"HEY!" hollered the coach . . . "NO MORE SUBSTITUTES! Once more I can have the perfect cup of roaster-fresh coffee —and without time out! Nescafé is here again!"

That's big news for you, too. For Nescafé offers you the peak in coffee enjoyment . . . because Nestlé's knows the way to give you all the flavor—all the lift—of really fine coffee! First, we make an extract from choice coffees fresh from the roaster—then instantly seal in the wonderful flavor! You release this locked-in freshness by just adding hot water.

So easy to prepare . . . no coffee maker to get ready or clean up . . . no grounds to dispose of. A teaspoonful of Nescafé makes a cup—for only about 1¢. No waste . . . you make exactly the amount you need—and just the strength you like.

Ask your grocer for Nescafé today—if he doesn't have it now, ask him to set aside a jar for you when his supply arrives. He will have it soon—and . . . it's worth waiting for. It's the sure way to coffee enjoyment.

OK . . . said Uncle Sam!

. . . and PROVED it by buying —for our Armed Forces— MORE NESCAFÉ THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED! And—the only Army-Navy "E" award in the soluble coffee field is held by the Nestlé's plant at Sunbury, Ohio!

OK . . . said our fighting men!

. . . they wrote thousands of letters saying how well they liked it! Liked it so well that in PX's and Commissaries—where they had their own choice—the sales of Nescafé were sensational!

NESCAFÉ (PRONOUNCED NES-CAFAY) IS NESTLÉ'S SOLUBLE COFFEE PRODUCT COMPOSED OF EQUAL PARTS OF SKILFULLY BREWED SOLUBLE COFFEE SOLID ADDED CARBOHYDRATES (DEXTRINS, MALTOSE AND DEXTROSE) ADDED SOLELY TO PROTECT THE FLAVOR

Charity Aid Rush

By BETTY ALDEN

FRIENDS OF MRS. OLIVER WOLCOTT HAYES, the former Nancy Joy Bernard, an outstanding beauty in the post deb set and a popular fashion model, are pleased to learn that she is to make her home here instead of in Washington, her husband's native heath. Since his discharge from the Navy torpedo boat squadron, Oliver has taken a position as patent attorney for a llub manufacturing firm and the couple have bought a house in Newtonville. They have just moved in and are looking forward to having a tree for their infant daughter. They were married during the war following Nancy's debut at a June luncheon.

Like June in the popular hit song, Christmas sales are bustin' out all over in a pre-holiday rush to benefit worthwhile charities and give shoppers a chance to obtain unusual gifts to fill Christmas stockings.

Mrs. Oliver Wolcott Hayes

Latest sale is the one to benefit the Rutland Training Center which opened for four days yesterday at 485 Boylston st. Articles there are too large to stuff in stockings but include a wonderful variety of hand-made furniture, hanging bookshelves, sewing boxes, luggage stands and record cabinets. They were made by young men at Rutland who have suffered from tuberculosis and are now being trained in a self-supporting vocation. Every Christmas a group of prominent socialites interested in the work at Rutland sponsors this sale.

Mrs. Robert Peabody, chairman, welcomed shoppers yesterday. The shop is decorated with rich brocade hangings loaned by Mrs. Jasper Whiting and festive wreaths made by Mrs. John H. Cunningham who is head over heels in plans for the Christmas greens sale next week to benefit the N. E. Farm and Garden Ass'n. "We're having a gay assortment of Oregon holly, pepper berries and southern magnolias for our swags and centerpieces," she remarked yesterday over a cup of coffee poured by attractive Mrs. John G. Flint, one of the busy helpers at the Rutland sale.

Mrs. Andrew N. Winslow, another peppy young matron, was tabulating sales and Mrs. Robert T. S. Lowell, in chocolate brown with a honey ermine coat, was admiring a pair of French provincial bedside tables. Others busying themselves around the shop were Mrs. Sheldon Wardwell, Mrs. Max Whiting, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Rimmer, and shoppers included Mrs. W. Rodman Peabody, Mrs. W. R. MacAusland, Mrs. Robert Hallowell, Rosamond and Aimee Lamb and Mrs. Henry G. Vaughan.

A gay pink wedding bell spilled forth a colorful array of trousseau gifts for Betty McHugh at an enjoyable bridal shower given in her honor last evening by Mrs. George A. Laubenstein at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. Edward Martin of Milton.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. McHugh of Wellesley Hills, Betty will be married at a large Christmas wedding, Dec. 29, to Lt. (jg.) Charles Donovan of Newton. Mrs. Laubenstein, the former Priscilla Martin, who is looking forward to having her Navy lieutenant bridegroom home in the near future, will be a bridesmaid.

Showering the future bride were her mother and sisters Jean and "Chickie," Mrs. Francis Donovan and Mrs. John Costello, mother and sister of the future groom; Mrs. James McGuire, Mrs. Harry Keefe, Jean Crowley, Jane Garland, Frances Murray, Marjorie Halloran and Mrs. John Lenehan.

Mrs. Charles A. Newhall, president of the Household Nursing Ass'n, was hostess at a dinner last night at Brittany Coffee Shop for Dr. William F. Marlow, Jr., commencement speaker at exercises for 50 attendant nurses who have just completed 14 months' training. Her other guests were Mrs. Marlow, a director, Mrs. Edward H. Osgood who presented the diplomas in Copley Methodist Church, Mr. Osgood and Miss Katherine Shepard, director of the Association.

Stage Show Spurs Loan

An imposing stage show embracing world-famed talent will feature the Free Bond Preview tonight at Loew's State Theater at 8:30. The show, staged in the interests of the current Victory Loan drive, will serve as a dedicatory salute to the Air Technical Service Command, whose entire personnel is assisting in the drive. Admission to this star-studded stage and screen show is free to any purchaser of any denomination bond from Loew's State or Orpheum Theater.

The stage show is headed by the Cushing General Hospital band under the direction of T-Sgt. Bunny Snyder, formerly leading trumpeter of Will Bradley's band. Other outstanding acts include Brown and Young, sensational comedy team; Sgt. Marjorie Cardinale, soprano; S-FC Tom Harty, eccentric dancer and comedian, formerly with Rudy Vallee; Cpl. Bob Nelder, ventriloquist, formerly of the "Rainbow Room" in New York; Sgt. Earl Tewksbury and his trained dog Snafu. M-Sgt. Ed Newman, radio director of the First Service Command, will act as master of ceremonies.

The feature film will be the first New England showing of Columbia's comedy, "She Wouldn't Say Yes," starring Rosalind Russell and featuring Lee Bowman, Adele Jergens and Charles Winninger.

Bond booths at the State and Orpheum are open day and night for the sale of Victory Bonds.

"DOLLY SISTERS," starring platinum-tops June Haver and Betty Grable as the dusky-haired Hungarians of another day, moves to the Paramount and Fenway screens tomorrow.

2 Europe WACs Cited as Best Drivers

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Dec. 5 (AP)— U. S. Army headquarters has cited two WACs, Sgt. Helen Frecks of Brooklyn and Pfc Betty Evinger of Kansas City, as among the best motor vehicle drivers in the European theater.

They drove their big 29-passenger busses 17,000 miles during the past three months without an accident.

"FRONTIER GAL," who would be glamorous Yvonne De Carlo, follows the sensationally successful "Spanish Main" on Keith Memorial screen. Little Betty Sue Simmons is a best bet in the new Western-with-glamor.

Wild Gale Sweeps Pacific Northwest

SEATTLE, Dec. 5 (AP)—A wild gale raged on into the north today, leaving at least three dead, toppling trees and power poles and unroofing buildings in Oregon and Washington, and menacing troop transports in Puget Sound.

Worst damage appeared to center in the Portland, Ore., area. The gale reached 84 miles an hour.

'Queen for a Day' Due at RKO

"Queen for a Day," radio's daytime audience participation program, will be given a New England premiere on the RKO Boston stage, when it begins a week's engagement here tomorrow.

The lucky person chosen "Queen for a Day" . . . and every New Englander in the RKO Boston audience that week has the opportunity . . . is literally showered with gifts.

Under the guiding hand of Master of Ceremonies Jack Bailey, six contestants and five jurors will be selected from the audience at each performance. The winning "queens" will be awarded Hollywood-designed wardrobes, gloves, handbags, nylon hose, vanity compacts, flowers, cigarette cases and other lovely gifts, plus dinner at smart restaurants and night clubs.

In addition to this complete stage show, there are to be other acts as well as the first-run screen attraction, "Sunbonnet Sue," co-starring Phil Regan and Gale Storm.

TICKET SALE AT COPLEY

Tickets go on sale tomorrow for "Murder Without Crime," the English murder mystery, which opens an engagement at the Copley Theater on Monday night. John Carradine and Lilian Harvey are co-starred in the cast of four. Tom Rutherfurd and Sonia Sorel are the other two.

Bells of St. Mary's Coming to Keiths

"The Bells of St. Mary's," Leo McCarey's outstanding screen production co-starring Bing Crosby and Ingrid Bergman, will be Keith Memorial's Christmas Day gift to you and you and you.

The three to top current Academy Award winners combine their talents for this history-making picture.

Bing sings five numbers including "The Bells of St. Mary's" and "Aren't You Glad You're You?" Ingrid sings a lovely Swedish folk-song.

Cereal Candies Make Ideal Christmas Gifts

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

IF CHRISTMAS GIFT LISTS are long and you're puzzled about what Aunt Em or Cousin John would like, make your holiday gifts in the kitchen and treat them with special goodies—cereal candies that are nutritious and so good tasting that the family will want an extra batch for themselves.

There's family fun in candy making. These recipes are so easily followed that the children may help to prepare them, and fortunately they are "sugarless" so that mother need not worry about a lavish hand in the sugar jar. These delicious candies are made with plentiful thrifty cereals combined with nuts, cocoanut, milk or chocolate to tempt the holiday guests.

While packing gift boxes and wrapping balls in cellophane to hang on the tree, don't forget to pack a toy Christmas sleigh. Surrounded with greens and tiny gold ornaments, it can be the centerpiece for the Christmas dinner table. And, remember, these holiday goodies are good year 'round, for cereals are one of the regulars on the pantry shelf, and these recipes are a happy addition to the recipe file.

CHOCOLATE DROPS

½ lb. sweet chocolate
1 square (1 oz.) bitter chocolate
2 ½-1 cups crisp oat cereal, corn flakes, or wheat flakes

Melt sweet and bitter chocolate together over hot water. Gently stir cereal in so as not to crush it. Be sure it is thoroughly covered with chocolate. Drop by spoonfuls onto waxed paper. Place in refrigerator, if necessary, until chocolate is set. Store in cool place. If desired, ½-cup Spanish salted peanuts may be added before dropping onto waxed paper. Makes about 2 dozen.

SQUARES OF GOLD

8 cups crispy corn cereal
½ cup salted peanuts
½ cup coconut, if desired
1 cup cream or top milk
1½ cups dark corn syrup

Mix corn cereal and peanuts (coconut, if desired) in mixing bowl. Combine cream and syrup in saucepan and cook to 244 deg. F. (temperature at which a firm ball forms when a little of the mixture is dropped into cold water), stirring constantly to prevent scorching. Remove from heat, pour over cereal mixture and mix well. Flatten into a greased 8-inch square pan. Cut into 2-inch squares. Makes 16 squares.

MOLASSES PUFFS

¾ cup light corn syrup
¼ cup light molasses
½ tsp. salt.
1 tsp. vinegar
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 tsp. vanilla
4 cups puffed cereal or crisp rice cereal
½ cup salted peanuts

Combine syrup, molasses, salt and vinegar in saucepan. Cook until a little of the mixture forms a hard ball when dropped into cold water (258 deg F.). Remove from heat, stir in butter and vanilla. Mix cereal and peanuts in a large, lightly greased bowl. Slowly pour hot syrup over cereal and nuts. Mix lightly. When cool enough to handle, form into small balls. Makes about 3 dozen.

CEREAL NUGGETS

1 cup corn syrup
1 tbsp. butter or margarine.
1 tsp. vinegar
6 cups crisp rice cereal or corn cereal
½ cup chopped nut meats
½ cup chopped raisins

Cook syrup to 242 deg. F. (or when a little dropped into cold water forms firm ball), stirring occasionally. Remove from heat; add butter and vinegar. Combine cereal, nuts and raisins in shallow bowl; pour over syrup, mixing well. Pack lightly into greased shallow pan; cool. Cut in squares. Makes about 12.

Fashion

CLASSROOM class prefer pastel kitties this season to express their alertness to new color combinations. Distinctive selection of CBS starlet, Susan Thorne, is this heather-soft yellow wool skirt topped with a black jersey blouse. And what's that black safety pin doing so brazenly out in the open on the skirt? It's the authentic Scotch touch by Junior Firsts designers who've placed it there . . . perhaps to call attention also to the self-fringed closing edge. This is a fashion-maker for the jaunty juniors.—R. M.

Beauty

Timely Appeal to Santa

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

SENSATIONAL SANTA! One glance at Marguerite Chapman is far from enough. This lovely requires concentration . . . and so would any woman whose face was as radiant and ravishing as hers. An unusual lipoid cream with remarkable skin revamping powers can give a face the beauty urge that could change a woman's entire outlook on life.

DEAR SANTA CLAUS: All your letters are from kiddies. Well, I'm a grown-up kiddie, although still a child at heart . . . so I'm writing you, not for unselfish me alone . . . but in behalf of all my grown-up sisters. And I have thousands of them . . . for all women are sisters under the skin . . . and while I'm not my sister's keeper, I am, at least, her ordained mouthpiece.

It's the care of the skin for which I invoke your ethereal indulgence. Oh, I know you can't literally do anything about it . . . but you can be instrumental in seeing to it that women everywhere get the inspiring tools which will prod them to do something about it. That's why . . . when you drive Dancer and Prancer et al reindeer over the rooftops in that merry, merry sleigh, I hope you have a gift for every woman . . . one that will make her as beautiful of face as you are hale and hearty.

Surely cosmetics are not out of your line. For you tymfy joy supreme. And, pray tell, what woman knows the full cup of joy and happiness if she isn't pretty to the eye? A pretty girl is like a melody . . . a melody is a song . . . and a song is what comes out of a happy heart via captivating and provocative lips. You see how happiness works?

One of many cosmetics which I hope your crowded sleigh carries is a really special, special cream with a really special, special purpose . . . for it has the power to make the complexion as rosy and radiant as your garb. It is a lipoid cream . . . that special ingredient so necessary to the vitality of facial skin . . . so potent that very often one application has the efficacy to transform a listless complexion into overnight sparkle.

These are not idle words, Santa Claus. I know, because I've been a guinea pig for this cream myself. And, what it has done for me . . . it can and will do for my sisters. If their skin suffers from exhaustion . . . a common complaint these days, Santa Claus . . . this cream will dispel it like a knockout blow gives an opponent the count of ten. It has the propensity of rebuilding tissue . . . of contracting pores . . . of firming facial contours . . . of making the face such a lovely expanse of youthful smoothness that it is amazing.

What this world needs is a little more laughter.

For the name of this facial rejuvenation cream, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Siren Broke Up This Home

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX—I've been married for 20 years, and during that time we were happy. We have two children. Several times during that 20 years I had reason to doubt my husband, but I was so much in love that I just put those doubts out of my mind.

Two years ago he started to work in a defense plant, where he met a divorced girl who has been taking up a lot of his time. Someone told my son about the affair, and it finally broke up our home. My husband has been away for five months, but I miss him terribly and just can't forget him, as I still love him.

He comes up to see the children and me once a week. They are now 17 and 14 and are old enough to know why their father left. When my husband come over yesterday he said he would return on his terms, which are that he wants to come and go as he pleases and would give us a certain amount of his pay on which to live. My answer was "No." as there was no mention made of his love for us. Did I do right? I think all he wants is a home, because he's sick of a furnished room, and it probably would be cheaper for him to come back with us.

UNHAPPY.

I agree with you that when a man is willing to return to his home for economic reasons and insists on making his own terms, the prospects for happiness are uncertain.

Let him continue to enjoy the doubtful meals of the hasheries and the gloom of his furnished room, in addition to which he's probably harboring doubts about the fidelity of the charmer he met in the defense plant. If his case runs according to form, he'll probably agree to return home on your terms, unless he's one of the stubborn irreconcilables.

Please Don't Ask To Borrow Them

Ladies, don't ask a friend for the use of her powder puff, lipstick, comb, or any other personal article. If you've forgotten your own powder-case, ask for a little loose powder, and apply it with a tissue or handkerchief.

MRS. BEECKMAN.

Close Fitting Necklace

By BETTINA BEDWELL

JEWELRY, which when real costs a lot of any man's money, doesn't get away from the need to be stylish because of that. New jewel styles come around every year, just like styles in anything else. And this winter the kind of necklace, for instance, that's considered very swank by those who know is one that is like a collar close around the throat.

You can see what I mean better by just looking at Miss Dulin's sketch. This represents a necklace by John Rubel, and it is made of palladium, that priceless new metal, in a snake chain set at the front with clips of cabochon emeralds and diamonds. Clips can be lifted off and worn otherwise.

Earrings from the same jewels are companion pieces. The set ought to send any gutee out of her mind with joy on Christmas.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

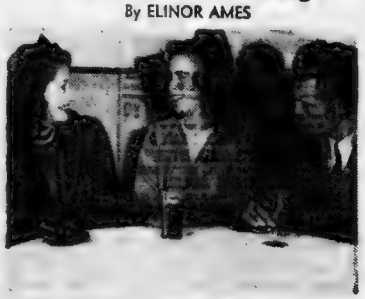

TABLE-HOPPER? Visiting at friends' tables is not good form. It is certainly not courteous to your own group and not tactful if those you visit prefer to be by themselves.

Disabled Veterans Fall Victim to 1940 GI Law

By AUSTEN LAKE

Austen Lake

IT IS FIVE YEARS SINCE the legal brains of the Selective Service Board stewed up a mess of ambiguous verbiage called "The Re-employment Provision," designed to safeguard the jobs of discharged service men. The nation was not at war! There was no prospect of disabled, crippled or mutilated veterans. So the SS jurists cooked up a contradictory stew for the plain Joes and Janes who, theoretically, were to serve 12 months in training and then bounce back to their civilian status.

That "re-employment provision" reads exactly the same today as it did in 1940. It has not been revised to insure the thousands of injured veterans who are swarming home and, in many cases, cannot get back jobs or, as the rule seems to provide while actually not doing so, "like senority, status and pay" (Sec 8; b-B).

I have had more than a dozen such cases come to this office. The employer is sorry! He sympathizes with Joe! But the GI provision reads in blunt Saxon English that a discharged veteran must be "qualified to perform the duties of (his old) position." And doesn't it also say in plain black type that the boss isn't liable "if the employer's circumstances have so changed as to make it impossible or unreasonable" to restore the soldier.

The Case of "Chub" Chandler

SURE IT DOES! So it's just no dice! The veteran's only recourse it to hobble around and peddle himself from pillar to post. It's just tough turkey, kid—except of course for the small pittances the government pays for compensation.

Like Capt. "Chub" Chandler, the old B. U. athlete and 101st Paratrooper, who used to sell insurance for an out-of-the-state firm. Chub wears deep purple indentations in both thighs that look like gopher holes. The shattered bone of his left shin is spliced together with silver clamps. He lurches painfully when he walks. He can't amble around the way he uster when making his insurance rounds.. He requires an inside, desk job where he can employ his smart brains and the rest of his able body. It's a case like that of ex-Pvt. Ed Clark, whose wounded knee wouldn't let him patrol his beat on the Randolph police force and who asked a station-house job that he didn't get. Remember?

Neither did Chub Chandler get his old job back, or as the GI statute says, "like seniority, status and pay." His boss commiserated on Fate's nasty trick and gave him advice. He offered a position in the firm's accounting department and added that he hoped Chub wouldn't take it. The boss wanted to do the right thing and said, "When we took you in 1938 you had something negotiable. But now you've lost that negotiability." Chub says he didn't put up any argument because he was too startled to talk.

So the writer called the boss on long distance and was told, "I thought I was doing the best thing for Chandler. We haven't anything equivelant to his old work. So I suggested that he should not compromise but seek other opportunities."

The other day Chub received a cordial note from the boss which read, "As always, enjoyed our brief visit. As you may be sure it is a source of regret to me that it appears our association is to be terminated. I know you have fine qualities and qualifications which will enable you to locate opportunities in some other direction. As I mentioned during our visit if there is any way, your former friends here can be of assistance . . ."

IT WAS A NICE LETTER. But the fact remains that Chub, who counted on his job, didn't get it back or a fair fac-simile of same. It was just his filthy luck that a Kraut sniper drilled him with three bullets while Chub led attack on a Normandy pillbox. Just tough turkey, pal! Fickle fate rolled your dice the wrong way! Sue that Heinie sniper! He knocked you out of the job!

I don't entirely blame the employer, many of whom, like the John Hancock Life, are taking back veterans regardless of handicaps with equivalent work and boosts in pay. Some do Some don't!

I blame the stupidity and inertia of the legal brains of the Selective Service Board which allowed an old, inadequate and contradictory rule to grow stale on its books. It just didn't bother! So today, tomorrow and every day partially disabled veterans appeal to the legal staff of the SS and get hand-me-down opinions in the profound tone of Supreme Court judgments that the vets haven't a legal leg to stand on, nor in some cases any other kind of legs.

So go get yourself another job little man, and if you can't, try to live on the slim allowance awarded you for your crippled limbs or twisted body. It's just tough turkey, kid!

Thus, if the company bends its neck to expediency, that is its legal right under present GI law. Sure it will give the guy a wage earning task with questionable opportunity and a set-scale of pay. But it isn't convenient to clog the works with crippled men who can't agilely romp around. The law says the vet must be "still qualified to perform the duties of his position." Then in Section 8, paragraph "c," subdivision "b," page 75, it also says, "In case any private employer fails to comply with these provisions (he shall) compensate such person (the GI Joe) for loss of wages or benefits suffered by such unlawful action." Who means what by which?

I say I have had more than a dozen partially disabled veterans come here with similar problems due to ambiguity in the GI law. Their old employers are sorry but they can't put them on the old job because (1) they are no longer physically fit ("lost their negotiability"), (2) there aren't any equivalent jobs conveniently available and (3) they don't want compromise jobs at less opportunity and pay. So the kids who were war casualties now find themselves peace casualties, too!

Thus far no test case by disabled veterans has been brought into federal court, merely a few minor matters in district courts. And the GI law which is antedated, vague, contradictory and framed in pre-war 1940, still stands on the books. Tough turkey, kids!

2nd Place in Balance In Garden Hockey Tilt

By BILL GRIMES

Undefeated in five games, the Bruins will clash with the Chicago Blackhawks tonight at the Boston Garden. To the victor will go second place in the N. H. L. standings.

Following the pattern established by the opening game of the season, an overflow crowd is expected to pull for the Rossmen to stop the high scoring Hawks.

Jack McGill

Under Coach Johnny Gottselig, the Hawks are playing wide open, crowd pleasing hockey. They have scored more goals than any club in the league, (57). Max Bentley the brilliant center iceman tops the field with 15 and is out in front of the other contenders for individual honors with 23 points, a three-point margin over his teammate Billy Mosienko.

The Bruins are in fourth place but only one point in arrears of Chicago and Detroit, who are deadlocked in No. 2 spot, a game and a half behind Les Canadiens.

Paul Bibeault has been most spectacular in the Boston nets of late. With the exception of two games in Toronto, Bibeault was only so-so until the Bruins met Rangers in New York on Armistice Day. In his first six games, Mons. Paul was beaten 25 times or 4.17 goals per game.

Then rumors spread that Frankie Brimsek was going to be discharged from the U. S. Coast Guard and would rejoin the Rossmen. Whether the return of Brimsek has had anything to do with the tremendous improvement in Bibeault's goal tending is pure conjecture. But, the records show that Mons. Paul has shut out Les Canadiens, held Rangers to two goals in as many games and yielded three tallies to Toronto and a equal number to the Red Wings for an average of 1.6 for five games, of which the Bruins won four and tied one.

The Hawks hold a decision over the Bruins. They took the opening game 5 to 4. "Red" Hamill, an ex Bruin, who delights in putting his best foot forward whenever he is playing against the Rossmen, turned the trick with 1: seconds of the third period remaining to be played, after knotting the count during the 14th minute of the final session. Max Bentley, also, beat Mons. Paul for two goals that evening, and the odd marker was contributed by Clint Smith.

The Bruins will be without the services of Bobby Bauer, who with the exception of one period has been out of action since he injured his left shoulder in Detroit on October 28. Jack McGill will skate the right wing on the Flyers' line.

Minor Loop Revolt Annoys Big Leagues

By JOE CASHMAN

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 5—The minor leagues, which took their orders from the major leagues and liked it while the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis sat on the baseball throne, are talking revolt now that Albert "Happy" Chandler is diamond commissioner.

Even before the minor league winter meetings officially opened here today the "bushers" were on the war path.

Hap Chandler

The Pacific Coast League, previously rated as one of three double A circuits, up and requested that in the future it be regarded as a third major league.

This request came in the wake of one from Billy Evans' Southern League that it be promoted from class A-1 to class AA.

These two actions left the other two old double A loops—the International League and the American Association—right in the middle. But not for long.

The International and the Association had better sense than to request that they be rated major leagues, which would make five such. At the same time they resolved they'd stay a rung higher than the Southern League on the minor ladder.

So they hit upon the idea of asking that a triple A classification be invented just for them.

Commissioner Chandler, who has yet to arrive here, even though he was scheduled for a meeting yesterday with Presidents Ford Frick of the National League and Will Harridge of the American League, probably will be all hot and bothered when he checks in and finds out what the minors are suggesting.

But Happy's major league employers will see to it that the minors stay in line.

Neither Boston club has yet been active on the trading mart but that's only because the top men of out entries haven't yet checked in. Gen. Mgr. John Quinn and Mgr. Billy Southworth of the Braves were the only Boston baseball representatives here yesterday.

But this afternoon will see Tribal owners Louis Perini, Joe Maney and Guido Rugo and Sox spokesmen Eddie Collins and Joe Cronin check in.

The Braves' bosses admit they hope to make trades and purchases galore.

Jake LaMotta Only Fit Foe for Ray Robinson

By JACK CONWAY

IT WILL TAKE Jake LaMotta to give Ray (Sugar) Robinson a real fight. This fact was very evident as Robinson toyed with Vic Dellicurti in their 10-round bout before 6428 persons at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden. Robinson coasted to victory as he carried each of the 10 rounds.

Dellicurti was not a match for Robinson. The latter took command at the opening gun, and hit Dellicurti with every punch in the book. Robinson probably could have scored a kayo if he had wished to open fire with everything he had. He was content to make it a boxing exhibition and proved in most convincing style that pound for pound he is the best fighter in the world.

Ray Robinson

In the ninth round, Robinson popped the tired Dellicurti on the chin with a right hand punch. Vic staggered across the ring and steadied himself against the ropes. One more smash would have ended the bout. Robinson wound up his right and the blow shot over Dellicurti's head. The bell then brought the round to a close.

Robinson played tag with Dellicurti in the tenth session.

The decision of Referee Johnny Martin and Judges Joe Blumsack and Tom Kirby was unanimous.

Conn Referees Bout

BILLY CONN, who will battle Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship of the world next June, looked youthful and in good physical condition as he refereed the eight-round draw between J. L. Wilkins of New York and Indian Gomez of Cuba. Conn's decision was a draw while Judge Blumsack voted for Gomez and Judge Kirby for Wilkins.

There was some confusion in announcing the decision. Conn thought Gomez had won and he raised his right duke. A check up of the points showed that with the officials divided a draw was the correct decision.

Conn declared he weighs 191 pounds, and that he plans to scale about 182 pounds for Louis.

"At 182 pounds I shall have my speed," said Billy. "This time I shall box Louis and I shall leave the ring heavyweight champion. I would have won the title from Louis when we last met if I had not punched it out with the champion in the thirteenth round. I was leading on points going into the thirteenth round, and if I had been careful I would have gone the 15 rounds and become champion."

Conn had a verbal clash with Mordito Medina, Gomez' chief second, when Billy checked the Cuban on his fistic style.

Show Drew $17,859

THE 6428 fans paid $17,859 into the box office for a net gate of $13,314. Conn received $750 and Robinson $5000.

Clint Conway stopped Shamus O'Brien in two rounds, Ted Christie outscored Oscar Williams in six heats, while Jimmy Troy won from John Bartelino in two rounds in a stirring tussle.

Random Shots at Target

AL MELLO and Billy Murphy of Lowell, former welterweight rivals, attended the bout in the company of Connie Lynch . . . Mello and Murphy have both made good in business.

Billy Conn went on record as picking Joey Archer to beat Johnny Pretzie at the Arena on Friday night at a Sharkey A. A. show . . . Pretzie was introduced to Conn by Johnny Buckley, and he is already looking forward to the time he clashes with Conn. He hopes Billy will then be champion.

The Goodwin Club announced it has signed Sal Bartolo, NBA featherweight champion, to meet Ellis Phillips, conqueror of Gus Mell, at the Garden on Dec. 11.

Recent winner over Fritzie Zivic and Fred Archer, Joe Curcio, Newark, comes here next Monday night to fight Benny Singleton, Waterbury, in one of four 10-round features on an Andy Callahan A. C. boxing show at Mechanics Building.

Curcio, 19, was born in East Boston but moved to Newark after his pro fistic debut which was in a Sam Silverman show at Fall River.

Other 10-rounders in the all-star show Monday will be Jack "Spider" Armstrong, Boston, vs. Joey Datto, Brooklyn; Tom Daniels, Pittsburgh, vs. Johnny Cesario, North End, in a return bout by public demand; and Bobby Zollo, Providence, vs. Rudy Campa, Los Angeles.

Racing Body Takes Crime Precautions

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (INS)—The Thoroughbred Racing Ass'n yesterday, took "official notice" of the "post-war crime wave" which has hit the turf, by promising its 23 member tracks the quickest possible moves to combat the budding evils of horse racing.

Acting on the request of its member tracks, the association's executive secretary, Alex Robb, said last night:

"Racing, like some cities and other groups, seems to be suffering from a post-war crime wave. We are herewith taking official notice of this and putting into motion plans for combating it."

The T. R. A.'s newly-elected board of directors devoted most of its discussion to the flood of recent criminal practices which have marked racing, such as horse stimulation, illegal sample test methods, etc.

"The plans of the board," Robb said, "will, of necessity, remain secret for the time being."

Umpire at 18

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5 (INS) The Ohio State League announced last night the signing of a youth believed to be the youngest ever hired as an umpire in professional baseball.

Frank M. Colley, president of the Class D loop, said that the new arbiter, 18-year-old Henry P. McGowan of New York City, had been recommended by Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants. He will graduate from high school next month.

Veterans Planning Amateur Ring Show

The American Veterans of World War II, State Dept., will stage an open, amateur boxing show at Mechanics Building, Jan. 23. Scheduled to appear in the heavyweight division is Peter Fuller, son of former governor Alvan T. Fuller.

Classes include 118, 126, 135, 147, 160 and heavyweight. Entries close with John F. Conlan, State Department Headquarters, Tremont Building.
